

Information Points

The Compass™ will assess where your nutritional needs are today and the number of associated biomarkers that Trévo™, as a comprehensive supplement, will address.

The Compass™ bio-assessment creates a stressor profile of your body to ascertain what nutrients are appropriate matches for your body's stressors at that moment.

Each bio-assessment is always a “brand new” bio-assessment and does not take into account your body's stressors at the time of your last bio-assessment. Consequently, we can say that Trévo™ consistently appears as the top choice because of its potential to address the greatest number of stressors in a positive way.

Trévo™ is referenced consistently in the software, as it addresses a myriad of stressors. This is due to its vast number and amount of nutrients. Can you imagine if Trévo's 174 nutrients were not among the Compass's™ choices, how many different supplements might actually be matched to meet your body's nutritional needs? The list of suggestions could be enormous.

The Compass™ bio-assessment validates your body's need for Trévo™ in order to address the greatest number of stressors. However, you should not use this bio-assessment as a measure of progress – such as improved or worsening health. Rather, what you should look for are improvements in your emotional and physical health from drinking Trévo™.

Because we recognize how Trévo™ affects the majority of people, we ask that you use it faithfully for 90 days, paying particular attention to how you feel. Be aware of your mental and physical energy levels, how well you sleep, how well you handle stress, whether you eat less, whether your cravings lessen and you begin to lose weight, or whether you simply notice your mood and overall physical health have improved.

We know, based on the number of biomarkers the Compass™ suggests will be addressed by Trévo™, that this “liquid power in a bottle” can do a magnificent job of supporting and balancing multiple systems within your body. Remember, this can occur whether you feel its effects or not. The majority of people, however, who consistently drink Trévo™ every day recognize a significant difference in their physical and emotional health.